- Has a financial or other incentive to favour the interest of another client or group of clients over the interests of the client;
- Has an interest in the outcome of a service provided to the client or of a transaction carried out on behalf of the client, which is different from the client's interest in that outcome;
- Carries on the same business as the client; or

- Procedures to prevent and control the exchange of information between persons at Hirose UK which may harm the interests of one or more clients;
- Controlling the disclosure of client order details of one client to another (other than generic information which is not capable of attribution to any particular client in respect of client trading trends);

Hirose UK's Policy

Hirose UK recognises, in certain circumstances, conflicts of interest can arise among Hirose UK, its directors, employees and appointed representatives, introducing brokers, relevant persons and all clients. As required by law, Hirose UK implements and maintains an effective conflicts of interest policy for the purpose of preventing conflicts of interest or potential conflicts of interest from causing a material risk of damage to the interests of clients.

30.11.2017

Hirose UK aim to keep a record of its business activities in order to identify any conflict that might involve a material risk of damage to the interests of its clients. Where Hirose UK identifies an actual or potential conflict of interest, it can take the following steps:

- a. Decline to act.
- b. Accept the conflict of interest but prevent any material abuse and protect its client. In order to do this Hirose UK maintains and operates permanent arrangements that are designed to manage most conflicts of interest once identified.

Disclosure

In the unlikely event that Hirose UK's arrangements to manage conflicts of interest are not sufficient to ensure, with reasonable confidence, that risks of damage to the interest of a client will be prevented, Hirose UK shall disclose the general nature and sources of conflicts of interest to the client before undertaking business for them.

Reviewing the Policy

Hirose UK reserves the right to review the Policy periodically and, if required, amend it to meet and support its clients' needs and ensure that the Policy is compliant with all application law and regulation.
